THEME

WE'VE tried to preserve for you readers,
In the few pages we have here,
Glimpses of the happiest hours
We've had together this year.
In doing this we're comparing
In a very small way
The most memorable hours of Washington's life
With those we live today.
The past is present,
The present, past—
That's the idea we're giving you here,
For human nature is much the same,
No matter what the year.

FOREWORD

GIRLS of Colonial days, and the Modern girl! Is there such a difference after all? Situations have a way of repeating themselves, so who knows but what other girls of other days, experienced the same things we do today, in our life on the hill?

It was with this thought in mind that we tried to link the past with the present, in the following pages. We hope that the charm of history of the present will serve as a finer, better background for the days that are to be!

To WASHINGTON

Father of our Country!
Oh, Immortal Soul!
Would that we could struggle
Upward to thy goal.
Would that we, while living here,
Could leave something worth while
To help the others in their toil
Along the weary mile.
Oh, that we might, in living,
Living—at its best,
Leave something for others to strive for
Or in some way help the rest.
If we could only, while staying
Four years of our life right here,
Where thou, O Great American,
Spent many a happy year,
Catch something of the vision
That inspired thee on thy way,
'Twould make every past hour of hardship
A pleasure, of today!
Hail to thee, Virginian!
We honor thy name today!
May the greatness of thy spirit
Linger with us—for always.

"Yellow Shadows"

Depressing shadows shift restlessly within,
While the uncertain lights yearn to conceal
The chilly spines as they draw closer to the fire
To cast dappled patterns of shade on the drapes
In severe outline.

Vain attempts in conversation fail to divert
The minds that probe and toss to find their guilt.
And shadows deepen as they hasten
To find satisfaction in the murderer.

The shadows, now yellow,
Fuse into one ray, cold and bronze,
Which plays around and paints the faces
Until the guilt appears evenly distributed.

Faces, slapped as if by hunger,
Each with its secret guilt to bear alone.
Comfort the murderer as he bows his head
On drawn knees in silent confession.

ROSALIND DECKER.

The Vision Splendid

'Twas sunset, and the evening star
Was twinkling in the west;
A quiet hush was o'er the place,
The earth seemed at its best.

A lonely figure was sitting
On the hill, at the foot of a tree—
Musing, wondering, dreaming
Of the past, and the days to be.
And as she sat there thinking—
Gazing out o'er the town below
A strange thing happened—
Something queer, the vision changed, for lo,
Instead of the twinkling street lights,
She had seen a moment before,
Small candle lights and minute lamps
Peeped through the windows and door.

The streets were filled with people
Dressed in crinoline
And powdered wigs, knee breeches,
Walking o'er the village green—
A gay pageantry of figures—
Never ceasing—seemed to be
Passing in review, slowly,
So she could see.

The powdered wigs soon passed away;
Likewise the crinoline;
And in their place others came—
Anxious to be seen.
On and on—ever changing—
This pageantry of life,
Each showing the signs of suffering—
Joy and sorrow, and of strife.

When suddenly, the quietness changed,
And panic filled the air—
The noise of guns—of thundering hoofs—
Destruction—everywhere!

The pageant stopped for a moment,
But how quickly time flies;
And ere many minutes passed away,
New figures greeted her eyes.
These people had been suffering,
But bravely they carried on
Their work of Reconstruction—
A new nation was begun!

A new feeling crept into the air—
Strange, new noises were heard.
The age of Science and Invention
Had crept in on wings—like a bird.

The solitary figure stirred—
What! Had she been sleeping there?
Or had her mind been "playing tricks"
While she sat in the twilight air?

Why, there lay Fredericksburg at her feet—
The lights gleaming down below—
The noise, and hum of the busy town—
People living—and "on the go."

The past has such a charm for us
With its memories ever dear,
And its feeling of enchantment
Still surrounds us living here!

Outline of Junior History

(From a Diary)

Freshman Year 1929-1930

We came up here on September 22. We rode on the train. We didn't want to leave home. Some girls met us, wearing ribbons. They must have been the "prizes" on the campus. They took us to Mrs. Bushnell's office. She gave us a room. We were hungry. We stayed hungry. We had good teams. We had bad tests. We had Devil Spirit. We gave the juniors a hike. We are sophomores.

Sophomore Year 1930-1931

In the vermillion autumn of 1930 we resumed our scintillating career in this institution of higher learning. We ignored sublimely the vociferous freshmen, conversed affably with the juniors, and met the seniors with dignity and serenity. Occurrences appeared to descend upon us always with overwhelming rapidity, but we met them with our philosophical calmness. We even condescended to stoop to black-face at our "Darktown Strutters' Ball," just to amuse our fellow workers here. We have reached the heights of sophistication!

Junior Year 1931-1932

We were sophomores;
We will be seniors;
We're always
RED DEVILS!

June Night

L'ENVOI

Queer little things come in out of the night
to me,
Strange elves, tricky little mites . . .
Some of them tug at my mouth corners
Till they go up;
And some of them tug at my heart
Till I want to cry.

This is my last night on the Hill.
I'm all alone.
Outside, the frogs sing;
I love the sound of frogs singing!
And tomorrow . . .

The night hangs heavy
And still.
But the elves come in.
Fancies, memories . . .
Things about the Hill,
Places . . .

The Rocks . . . Under the stars; Big Sisters—Little Sisters,
"Big Sisters, we love you . . ."
The Grove . . .
Lovely resting places
For long, warm afternoons.

Other things
Come to mind:
Things I've learned—
Most of the time, the Hard way
—But that's youth!

The frogs have stopped singing;
And a lone windlet
Shivers sighingly . . .
It's cold here by the window;
Tomorrow is on its way.
I can feel it already.

I want to keep tryst longer
With the elves.
But they're going
—Like the hours of this night,
They're slipping away.
And I'm so tired, and
Tomorrow
We'll all be saying . . .

They're quite, quite gone!
The elves.
Perhaps
They'll come again
Some day
Perhaps . . .

I open my book of memories,
Gaze at the pictured faces,
And at the messages
That go with them . . .

No—they're not gone!
The strange sprites.
They're hidden,
Somewhere,
In my heart,
—In the book . . .

I smile and leave my window,
And
All the time I am undressing
I hum a strange little tune.
There will always be tomorrow.
So—
Good-night!

SARAH OVERBY, '34.

SCENES FROM "PAOLO AND FRANCESCA"

VIRGINIA HALL PARLOR
FRANCES WILLARD PARLOR

The Devil and Goat Brawl

We have some unique characters on the campus at S. T. C.
Quite a Versatile Student Body—to that I'm sure You'll agree;
But there's two types of creatures represented,
Of which no other college could boast.
Referring, of course, to the famous "Devils and Billy Goats"!

'Twas October the First of '31 that the following events occurred—
So full of spirit, fun, and adventure
That 'tis hard to put them in words.

At four o'clock, the crack of Dawn,
The first commotion began,
When a few Energetic Seniors arose
(They were such a Happy Band).
Well, this was something unusual—
People up that time of the day.
But the Devils were too sleepy to wander
Or bother about it anyway.

On the way over to Breakfast,
Just outside Virginia Hall,
A curious sight met our eyes:
The Freshies and Juniors were appalled.
For there tied under the Maple tree,
Nonchalantly looking around,
Stood a real, live, "sure-nuff" Billy Goat!
Goodness knows where he was found!

At last, like dawn, came the light—
"Ah-ha". Now we understand
Why the Billy Goats were up so early
To work out this clever plan!
Ole Billy sure served his purpose,
Aided by the sign.
So very conspicuously placed you know,
Right on the "Eye-line."
That Sassy sign—"Here is our Goat!"—
Put fire in the Devil's Heart,
And the temperature on the campus started rising,
Mr. Ripley, "Believe it or not"!

The Goats had scored; there was no doubt
Or question about that.
But the Devils didn't worry,
For they were next at bat.
"We may be down, But never out"!
The Freshies and Juniors would yell;
Then They'd sing their "Fighting" Song.
And could those Devils raise "H——l"
Spirit? Goodness, Stranger,
The campus was full of it that day.
Everywhere you'd look or turn—
"Are you a Goat, or a Devil?
Well, say . . . "

Here and there on the campus
Were gathered little groups
Singing, yelling, or plotting
Amid much noise, and "whoops."
The Goats and Seniors and Sophomores on this side;
The Devils, Juniors, and Freshmen here,
Each assuring one another,
"Our side has nothing to fear"!

And so it went 'til Evening,
And 'twas time for the dinner bell;
But when every one started over
On the way they saw . . . well,
Devils on the Right of them,
Devils on the left—
Red and white, white and red.
The noise made one quite deaf!
Marching, Running, Singing,
"The Devils are gonna win"!
Truly 'twas the "Devils' Holiday."

And the fun was about to begin.

The Goats were distinctiev, too, that night,
Wearing ribbons of yellow and black;
But this was the Devil's inning,
And the Goats had to step back!

All went well, 'till nine o'clock,
When the real fight was to begin,
Providing the Goats hadn't found their Emblem
Which the Devils had already hid.
Anyway, Every one dressed for the Brawl—
Old clothes, and shoes—
Ready for the fray,
For by ten o'clock
'Twould all be over.
Who would win that day?

Dear Reader, I hesitate in writing
The events of the next half hour;
For I'm a Devil—proud of it, too—
But I'd like to skip this past some how.
Anyway, they'd found their Goat, By Gum,
And had hidden our Devil,
And How!

Well, we looked, we searched, we hunted,
For the Devil, the whole Grove O'er;
Climbed trees, jumped gullies,
Moved wood-piles,
'Til we couldn't look any more.
The Devils truly hunted
For their red Emblem, I insist,
'Til you'd thought the school had gone Detective wild—
Sherlock Holmes, Philo Vance in our midst.

For a week you couldn't move in the grove,
No matter how hard you tried,
Without stumbling over a handful of Devils
With every other stride.
Finally after so long a time
The Devil was actually found
Between the rocks of a newly built wall,
Right on our "Happy Hunting Ground"!

This ends our story, readers,
Of the Goat and Devil Brawl.
The finest spirit on the Campus
Was here—it Showed by all!
It was fun, excitement, and conflict
Guaranteed to make spirit soar,
And will go down in S. T. C. History
To be preserved for evermore.

So in conclusion, I'd like to say
To the student, faculty, and all:
We're proud of our "curious" emblems here.
Forward, Devils! Onward, Goats!
Carry On!

STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

FREDERICKSBURG, VIRGINIA

A standard A-class senior teachers college, member of the American Association of Teachers Colleges, the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States, and of the National Association of Commercial Teacher-Training Institutions.

A campus comprising seventy-five acres situated on Marye's Heights, overlooking the city of Fredericksburg, and commanding a panoramic view never to be forgotten. Beautiful groves, vine-clad slopes, deep wooded ravines threaded by crystal streams conspire to make it one of the most beautiful and alluring campuses in the South.

SOCIAL AND RECREATIONAL FACILITIES UNSURPASSED

Ideally and strategically located in an atmosphere of culture and refinement, and in an environment that is both inspiring and romantic. In these idyllic surroundings one's college days pass all too quickly. Fredericksburg is in the heart of the most historic section of America, and is easily accessible to Washington, Richmond, Mount Vernon, Wakefield, Stratford, and other places of importance and note.

A program of studies covering twelve departments, including Commercial Education, Physical and Health Education, Music, Home Economics, Library Science, and all general courses found in other standard teachers colleges.
